Health Promotion and Wellness (HPaW) Residential College at Baridon Hall

Students who are interested in a health-related career or who are just passionate about health and wellness will find it helpful to be surrounded by like-minded students with similar aspirations. Introducing HPaW at Baridon Hall, a brand-new residential college associated with the CHBS. Short for Health Promotion and Wellness, HPaW will serve as a unique learning community for students, allowing them to more closely work together toward their futures in the health professions and behavioral sciences.

HPaW HIGHLIGHTS

- A learning community that will better prepare students for advanced study
- Live and study with students who share similar goals and aspirations in wellness and health-related career fields
- Opportunities to work closely with accomplished faculty who have real-world experience in their respective fields of study
- Participate in service learning activities related to health and wellness
