

Essential/Traditional

Face-to-Face

In-Class Group

For courses deemed most critical to meet learning objectives that cannot be delivered online (studio, labs, etc.), instructors can teach completely face-to-face, maintaining safety guidelines. Also, courses where enrollment is within the maximum occupancy limits of the classroom can meet face-to-face. Lectures need to be recorded to accommodate students who cannot attend class.

PROS:

- Fully engaged with in-class lecture, discussions, and activities.
- Least amount of additional preparation to other models

CONS:

- Not automatically prepared to move online in case of emergency

What Instructor Sees

Student Group	All Sessions
All Students
Group B (Online Only Students)

