We have access to information like no time in history, but finding the right information can be a challenging and time-consuming process. LibGuides provides a solution to this problem. LibGuides allows librarians to deliver the best content we have to offer for each discipline. Our LibGuides are organized by subject, and through each LibGuide we are able to make you aware of the resources that are available for your research needs. LibGuides is most useful in that it allows us to highlight resources that are difficult to find. There are true gems buried in the depths of our collection, and LibGuides gives us a place to show you some of these items and to make the time you spend doing research easier and more productive.

A LibGuide is nothing more than a customizable webpage that offers several options for providing content. Each LibGuide we create provides access to books and other materials from our catalog, to databases and other e-content from our website, and to valuable resources from around the internet. From the catalog we provide access to reference books, books from our main collection, materials from the Archives and other physical items that can only be found at Torreyson Library. We also select and provide access to electronic journals, streaming videos and other appropriate electronic content that is only available through our website. From around the internet we can provide access to websites, YouTube videos, rss feeds and social media content that links you to a community of internet users that are interested in the same subject area.

Libguides are not just for the library. If you are teaching a class at UCA and would like to use a LibGuide in your course please contact Chris Springer at springer@uca.edu or Carol Hanan at chanan@uca.edu.

David Welky

By Susan Burks, Public Services Librarian

University of Chicago Press Books said of David Welky’s new book, The Thousand-Year Flood: The Ohio-Mississippi Disaster of 1937, “A striking narrative of danger and adventure—and the mix of heroism and generosity, greed and pettiness that always accompany disaster. The Thousand-Year Flood breathes new life into a fascinating yet little remembered American story.” Dr. Welky has written an account of the 1937 flood of the Ohio River to coincide with its seventy-fifth anniversary. A reader of the book wrote on Amazon.com that it “is an excellent account of a major environmental catastrophe that few beyond those with ties to the Ohio River Valley understand or even remember.”

Dr. Welky is an associate professor in the UCA History Department and he specializes in Twentieth Century United States history. As a part of the Torreyson Library Faculty Author Presentation Series, he will discuss his work on Tuesday, February 14th during x-period (1:40 p.m.-2:30 p.m.) in Torreyson Library room 215.

Clayton Crockett

By Carol Hanan, Government Information Librarian

The UCA Library is excited to host a presentation by Dr. Clayton Crockett who will be speaking about his new book Radical Political Theology: Religion and Politics After Liberalism. The book discusses the beginning of the break down of the opposition between the religious and the secular in the 1960’s, and how this break down affected modern liberalism, politics, religion and philosophy. One reviewer praised Crockett’s work by writing:

“Clayton Crockett, one of the leading lights in the younger generation of radical theologians, applies his considerable theoretical skills and impressive erudition to the political question: what comes after the collapse of secularism, liberalism, and free market euphoria? In a superbly crafted argument, he draws the dark lines of an imminent catastrophe, at once economic, ecological, and political, and imagines the possibility of a radical democracy animated by a radically rethought theology. An urgently needed and important book. -- John D. Caputo, Syracuse University, coauthor of After the Death of God”

Please join us on March 14th at 2:00 pm in Torreyson Library room 215 to enjoy Dr. Crockett’s presentation.
