New grad? Experienced clinician? Somewhere in between?"
At South Arkansas Rehab, we're looking for a PT or PTA who wants to grow, be supported, and make a real impact in communities that desperately need the kind of transformative healthcare that physical therapy can foster.
We know early-career practice can feel overwhelming sometimes.
We know that later-career practice can feel stagnant.
And we know that volume-focused work cultures suck. (Probably not supposed to use that word in an ad. But we did.)
That's why we intentionally invest in mentorship, collaboration, and professional development. It's why we focus on quality more than quantity.
You'll work in an environment characterized by:
Laughter...lots
Homemade snacks...way too much
A focus on the patient experience
Community engagement
Curiosity and growth
Frequent formal professional development opportunities
Daily organic mentorship
A focus on the employee experience
Here's where we insert all the generic language...competitive salary, health/ dental insurance, retirement benefit with matching, PTO, continuing education, etc.
Compensation IS important. But so is culture and community and purpose.
Who we are: South Arkansas Rehab has been serving the historically-underserved people of south Arkansas for almost 30 years by providing outpatient physical therapy services that are evidence-informed and person-centered. We have clinics in Monticello and McGehee. We currently employ 8 PTs and 4 PTAs.

We're making a difference! If you'd like to contribute and grow with us, let's talk about it.
