

Intern in D.C.

(Or From the Comfort of Home)

At The Washington Center (TWC), our goal is simple: we aim to provide the connections, tools and insights you need to launch a career you'll love.

Whether you take part in our internship program in Washington, D.C. or join us remotely from home, you'll have an immersive experience that's tailored to you and your goals.

Program Components

Internship

TWC partners with over 400 internship sites in D.C. and across the country, and we work with you one-on-one to land the internship that's right for you. Once you begin your internship, you'll be working on projects related to your interests, with a supervisor who cares about your growth and success. See our sample internship sites at twc.edu/internship-2021.

Evening Course

During your summer or semester with TWC, you'll take a virtual academic course one night each week. You'll be able to choose a course based on your interests and gain access to faculty members who not only work as professors, but often as professionals in their field. See common course options at twc.edu/course-2021.

Career Prep

TWC's virtual career readiness programming is a mix of professional development workshops, career exploration sessions, networking events and one-on-one advising designed to help you maximize your internship experience and come away with a plan for your next step.

I've learned a lot from this experience. It's taught me about responsibility, communication, and, quite frankly, what being a professional is all about.

Community

If you join TWC in the nation's capital, you're guaranteed a spot in our housing. You'll have a built-in community of students and staff to support you, and a fully-furnished apartment to call home. See our Residential and Academic Facility at twc.edu/housing-2021.

We have been (and will continue to be) proactive about protecting our community in light of the COVID-19 pandemic. This fall, we have added safety precautions such as mandatory testing, temperature checks and single occupancy living for students who have joined us in D.C. We are also requiring masks in all common areas within our housing facility and limiting the number of people who can be in those spaces at any given time.

All that being said, TWC's "community" is so much more than just a building. Whether you join TWC in the nation's capital or remotely, you'll be part of a network of staff, advisors, professionals and over 60,000 alumni who are willing and eager to help you succeed.
